

Contributors

Peter Brennan is a writer and engineer whose fiction has appeared in the Foreign Service Journal. A past finalist for Glimmer Train's Short Story Award for New Writers, Brennan is currently writing a humorous novel about construction, empathy, and natural gas fracking entitled Fracking Mess.

Gerald T. Hendrickson, a local stuntman and sometimes huckster, practices law in Saint Paul, Minnesota, under the name of Mr. Hendrickson.

Leslie Gielow Jacobs is a constitutional law professor at University of the Pacific, McGeorge School of Law in Sacramento and directs its Capital Center for Public Law & Policy. She served as a law clerk to Associate Justice Lewis F. Powell, Jr. of the U.S. Supreme Court and grew up in Michigan, near the lake.

Kyle Mallinak is a third-year student at the University of Virginia School of Law and a native of Kingsport, TN. He enjoys legal fiction because it allows him to write 5000 words about the law without ever opening The Bluebook.

Melissa F. Miller is a practicing litigator, a crime fiction writer, and the mother of three budding lawyers, if their oral advocacy skills are any indication. After more than a decade working at major international law firms, she and her husband opened Miller & Miller Law Firm LLC, where they combine the best practices of a large firm with the personal focus of a small firm. Melissa's legal thriller series is currently available at amazon.com and local bookstores.

Patrick C. O'Reilly is a lifelong resident of western New York where he lives with his wife and two children and has practiced matrimonial law as a member of the law firm of Lipsitz Green Scime Cambria LLP for more than 30 years. He is a member of the adjunct faculty of the State University of New York at Buffalo School of Law teaching family law, serves upon the New York State Office of Court Administration's Matrimonial Advisory Committee, and is a past president of the New York State Chapter of the American Academy of Matrimonial Lawyers, as well as past chairman of the New York State Bar Association Family Law Section.

Risa Peris graduated from Boston College Law School in 2001 and is currently working in business in the Phoenix area. She is also now finalizing her first mystery novel and busy trying to produce a TV pilot and a screenplay she wrote.

John Power was born and raised in and around New York City. He received his undergraduate and law school degrees from Washington and Lee University in Lexington, Virginia. His novel, Golden Freedom, is available at <http://www.lulu.com>. He is an attorney in the litigation department of Jenner & Block LLP in Chicago.

Steven Semeraro is a professor of law at the Thomas Jefferson School of Law. He lives in San Diego, CA, with his wife Terry Gillis, his daughter Natalia, his dog Scout, and the memory of his old dog Boo Radley.

Marc Weitz was born in Los Angeles, is a graduate of Southwestern Law School and the University of Colorado. He has traveled extensively to 81 countries and currently runs a solo law practice in Los Angeles specializing in bankruptcy law and real estate litigation.